

Betsy McKay (wife of Neil Bainton, Lauder 1989)

Betsy is a senior writer for The Wall Street Journal covering U.S. and global public health. Previously, she was Atlanta bureau chief, managing a team of reporters who cover the Southeast U.S. She joined The Wall Street Journal in 1996 in Moscow, where she covered Russia's post-Soviet political and economic transformation.

She is a member of a team of Journal reporters awarded the 1999 Pulitzer Prize in the international reporting category for in-depth analytical coverage of the Russian financial crisis. She has also won awards for stories on the rising threat of drug-resistant tuberculosis around the world, and a growing crisis with maternity care in the rural U.S.

(Betsy holds a B.A. from Amherst College and an M.A. in Russian language and literature from Bryn Mawr College).