

Michelle Bowman is an international development professional who has led strategy, operations and change in over 10 countries. She is currently the Transformation Director at Save the Children, a $2B INGO operating in over 100 countries, where she is leading an initiative to reshape the $100M investment in global technical expertise, and shift more expertise and power to the global south. Prior to this role Michelle worked in Programme Operations in India and Ethiopia, and served as Save the Children's Global Strategy Director. Michelle also worked in strategy, change and operations in roles at Boston Consulting Group and the American Red Cross.

Michelle earned her MBA from the The Wharton School and her MA from the Lauder Institute, Spanish track in 2009. She holds a BA from Harvard.