

Thomas Egeman (Lauder class of '97) co-chairs the Wharton Alumni Angel Network as part of the Wharton Club of the UK. He is a Board advisor to a number of FinTech and Healthcare start-ups. Thomas has recently stepped away from a series of international management roles including Barclays, where he was Head of Strategy and Business Management Director in Corporate Banking. His professional career spans strategy management consulting with Accenture, corporate banking with Barclays, and asset management with BlackRock and Barclays Global Investors. In 2000's he developed his own consulting business and as CEO provided services to prominent investment banking clients.