

Mary Flanagan

Mary is a global leader who uses her corporate experience in retail, tech and customer-focused organizations to drive social impact. Most recently, she has held C-level and board positions with nonprofits focused on improving community support for education, career training, inclusive work places, mental health, and substance use disorder. She currently consults with women-owned businesses, nonprofits, and social impact organizations to provide cross-functional operations support, strategic planning leadership, and change management guidance. Her professional experience also includes corporate strategy, consulting, and business transformation roles with Dell Technologies, Staples, Inc, Data Resources, Inc., and Deloitte Consulting.

Mary holds an MBA from the Wharton School in Finance and an MA in International Studies from the School of Arts and Sciences. She has a BA in English Literature from Williams College.