

Mayra Rodríguez Valladares (Lauder 1995)

Mayra Rodríguez Valladares is managing principal of MRV Associates where she is a financial risk consultant and trainer. Her consulting projects have included banks, financial regulators, central banks, securities firms, and insurance companies. Ms. Rodríguez Valladares has written business plans and created financial models for a wide-range of companies and has analyzed financial firms' financial models and stress tests. She also conducts numerous courses on Basel III, Dodd-Frank, ESG, financial derivatives, data aggregation, leveraged lending, securitizations, and risk management both in the US and abroad.

Ms. Rodríguez Valladares has been an Adjunct Professor at New York University where she has taught courses on globalization and energy. She was also an Adjunct Professor at the Fashion Institute of Technology where she taught global marketing, corporate finance and Latin American Politics.

Rodríguez Valladares has published numerous articles and a book for publications such as American Banker, CMEGroup, Financial Times Energy, Forbes, GARP, The Hill, Hispanic Business, Knowledge@Wharton The New York Times, Oxford Economics Forecasting Group, Petroleum Argus, Privatisation International, Russian Petroleum Investor, TabbForum, and World Oil. Ms. Rodríguez Valladares has been interviewed frequently in English, Spanish and Russian by the BBC, Bloomberg Financial News, Christian Science Monitor, The Financial Times, The Industry Standard, Law360, The New York Times, Radio Free Liberty, SP Global, ThomsonReuters, The Wall Street Journal, and Waters Technology.